Memphis Botanic Garden's Annual Spring Plant Sale Returns April 10-12

Memphis, TN – The highly anticipated Spring Plant Sale returns to Memphis Botanic Garden (MBG) from April 10-12, offering an incredible selection of plants specially curated for Mid-South gardens. The sale takes place at MBG's Nursery at the Garden from 9 am to 4 pm each day.

MBG Members enjoy exclusive early access on April 10, while the event is free to the public on April 11 and 12—no reservations are required.

This annual sale, MBG's largest plant event of the year, features a diverse array of natives, trees & shrubs, vegetables, herbs, annuals, pollinator-friendly plants, woodland ephemerals, houseplants, tropicals, and more—including many grown in the Garden's own greenhouses.

Visitors can receive expert guidance from MBG's horticultural staff and Master Gardener volunteers, who will be on hand to answer questions, offer planting recommendations, and provide expert care tips.

"Our Spring Plant Sale is shaping up to be the best one yet!" said Daniel Grose, MBG's Director of Horticulture. "We have the foremost horticultural experts in Memphis growing and curating hard-to-find, resilient, and stunning plants you won't find anywhere else.

- Old roses selected by Rosarian Joey Mayes
- Annuals & tropicals curated by Seasonal Displays & Tropical Plants Curator Jill Maybry
- Hard-to-find native plants grown by Native Plant Curator Anne Ballentine
- An eclectic mix of indoor plants propagated by Greenhouse Manager Wyatt Peterson
- Tried-and-true vegetables cultivated by Urban Home Garden Curator Colin Rye

"This is a sale not to be missed—bring pictures of your garden and all your questions, and let our team help you select the perfect plants for your home and landscape. We can't wait to see you there!" Grose added.

In addition to MBG's impressive plant selection, specialty vendors will be on-site, offering unique finds including:

- Spirit Hill Maple Nursery – Rare & popular Japanese maple cultivars
- Southern Cultured Orchards & Nursery – Heirloom, native, and exotic fruit trees
- Don Warmbrod's handcrafted birdhouses & garden signs – Perfect for adding charm to any outdoor space
